September 2018 Edition

*From Your
Director of Missions*

Small things make a big impact. We tend to neglect the small things in our lives as well as the small things that we do. I'm not sure if it is because we feel like they don't matter or because they are so small that we just really don't think about them at all. I think we all know that bad things no matter how small tend to happen at the same time and when they do they can ruin a day. I want to challenge each of us to make an effort to do small things for good. I know that each of us have opportunities every day to do something that may seem insignificant but you know it would be good for someone else. My challenge is do it, everyday. It doesn't have to be big, but could be as simple as a phone call, letter, or simply a kind word when you see someone out in the community. I know that just like those small bad things add up, if we do small good things they too will add up and have a big impact in our community. It doesn't cost a thing so go do something good.
