The Fields Are STILL White
"Don't Park the Combine"

I heard the story about an old farmer during the Harvest Season. One fall he brought in the best yield he had seen in years. The first field came in strong, the bins filled up, and his neighbors stopped by to congratulate him. That evening his grandson said, "Granddad, we did good. Let's park the combine and rest a while."

The old man smiled, put his hand on the boy's shoulder, and pointed across the fence line to acres of grain still standing, golden and ready. "Son," he said, "we'll thank the Lord tonight for what's in the bin. But tomorrow at daylight, we're going back out. A good first field isn't a reason to quit. It's proof the crop is ready. If we leave the rest standing, the weather will take what we could have gathered."

September was our first field. We rejoice in what God gathered in, and we should. But the fruit of that week is not a signal to park the combine. It is proof that the fields of Trigg County are white unto harvest. Our neighbors, coworkers, classmates, and family members still need Jesus, and the season for gathering is now. "Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest" (Matthew 9:37–38).

The Apostle Paul wrote to the church at Philippi, "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you… for your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now" (Philippians 1:3, 5). That is exactly how my heart feels when I remember the Harvest Trigg County Crusade this past September.

We thank God for every church that opened its doors, wallets and hearts. We thank Him for the prayer warriors who were praying long before the first service began, for the counselors who sat with seekers and opened the Word, for the musicians and singers who led us in worship, and for those who preached the Gospel with clarity and conviction. We thank Him for the volunteers who set up chairs, parked cars, cooked meals, handed out invitations, and cleaned up long after everyone else had gone home. No task was small, because every task served the Gospel.

As we gather this Thanksgiving, let us do more than count our blessings around the table. Let us also count the names of people who heard the Gospel in September and keep lifting them up to the Lord. "In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you" (1 Thessalonians 5:18).

Harvest Trigg County was never meant to be a single event. It is a calling for every church and every believer in our association. Here are a few ways we can keep the combine running:

- Keep praying by name. Ask each member to write down the names of five lost friends or family members and pray for them daily through the end of the year.
- Use the holidays as open doors. Thanksgiving and Christmas gatherings are natural times to share what Jesus means to you. Invite someone to a Christmas service or a meal.
- Equip the laborers. Offer a simple Gospel-sharing class so every member feels ready to "give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (1 Peter 3:15).
- Work together. What we did together in September, we can keep doing together. Partner with sister churches in the association for outreach, service projects, and prayer.

Harvest work is hard work. But God's Word gives us this promise: "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Galatians 6:9).

Let's keep harvesting Trigg County with the Gospel of Jesus Christ!

In Christ, Bro. Bobby
